

How do I get my forklift licence in Australia?

- You can only get your licence via a registered training organisation (RTO). The RTO may be a private company or a government TAFE.
- At the RTO you must pass the requirements of the unit of competency TLILIC0003 Licence to operate a forklift truck. Training will be both theoretical and practical. The final test will be given using the national assessment instrument (NAI). It has three parts being Knowledge, Calculations, and Performance. A WorkSafe/Workcover approved assessor will conduct the test. You are not allowed to see the test beforehand – therefore you must be thoroughly trained.
- The forklift licence is national and can be used anywhere in Australia.
- The forklift licence comes in the form of a picture ID similar to a driving licence.
- You must renew your licence every 5 years. Failure to do so will mean you will have to do the test again.

Elements in the Forklift Truck unit of competency are:

Element 1 – Plan work/task

Element 2 – Prepare for work/task

Element 3 – Perform work/task

Element 4 – Pack Up

For further information contact admin@easyguides.com.au / 1300 733 220